Health Paper
Post-secondary

Overview:
Students will get practice on research by researching a health topic using Bing.com. They will write a paper on their findings.

Objectives:
To learn about a current health issue or topic, learn how to research, and successfully write a paper about it.

Materials:
Computer with internet access
www.bing.com

Procedures:
Students will be using Bing.com to search for a recent health issue/ topic. Tell them that they can go to bing.com, and then click on “Health” on the left side bar to find their information.

They should research as much about the health topic as possible; they are allowed to use other websites to find their information.

The report they will write should be four pages, double spaced, 12 point and Times New Roman font. All of their work should be cited, with a list of references page (not included in the 4 pages).

Health news videos (as listed on Bing) are permitted for use and citation.

Evaluation:
A formal evaluation of the research paper will be graded. It will be graded on completeness, accuracy, grammatical correctness, and correct citation of references.
