

How to use Spaaze for Planning in the Classroom

By Alyssa Casselman

Spaaze.com	Calling all teachers to Spaaze.com a “virtual cork board” that I have found to be very useful for planning out various classroom activities.
Uses	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Lesson Plan • Parent Newsletters • Collaborative Teaching • Planning Class Parties Example – My classroom is doing a unit on Eric Carle. I searched the internet to get ideas for lessons and projects. Whenever I found a good idea I added it to my corkboard. Also, you can add documents and notes, such as finished lesson plans.
How	First make a free account at Spaaze.com Then you can use your Spaaze corkboards to add up to 99 notes and websites for planning and/or reminders.
Share	By giving other teachers the address to your Spaaze site you could collaboratively plan a project. You could also let parents know about activities going on in your classroom.
