

COM114 Group Presentation

Overview	Students will learn to research and compile a group presentation over a current issue of their choice.
Objective	Students will utilize Google notebook and create a shared notebook where they can all collect research including sources and notes. They will also use either Google notebook or another application to create an outline for their presentation. And lastly they will present their information as a group to the class. Groups will consist of 4-6 students.
Types of Students	College level students enrolled in a public speaking course
Materials	<ul style="list-style-type: none">• Computer lab• Google Notebook• Speech Requirements handout
Procedure	<ol style="list-style-type: none">1. First, give the class the requirements handout and assign students into their groups (or let them choose their own).2. Take the class to a computer lab and introduce them to Google notebook.3. Give them time to figure out how to use Google notebook and explain that they can research separately but together though it.4. Allow students time to do research and get started on their speech.
Application	Each group will give a 10-15 minute presentation in two weeks as well as turn in their Google notebook and outline.
Evaluation	Group will be graded according to a rubric developed by the instructor. Google Notebook and outline will be graded for adequacy as well.