

Evernote for Gym Class Volleyball

Objectives:	Introduce students to a new Web 2.0 application to watch themselves on video, look at pictures, and take notes about proper techniques they should work on.
Equipment:	<ul style="list-style-type: none">· Camera (video and picture capabilities)· Volleyballs· Poles and Nets on courts· Ball Cart· Knee pads (optional)
Procedure:	<ol style="list-style-type: none">1. Take students to lab and introduce them to Evernote2. Have the students experiment for several minutes to learn the program3. Take students to the gym and have them video tape each other doing the volleyball skills4. Have each student download videos and pictures to computer5. Students will upload videos and organize based on the dates taken (several videos and photos will be used)6. Each student will watch videos and make notes in Evernote about what they could do better7. Notes will include volleyball skill cues and terminology8. Students will save their work and use it for an assessment later
Assessment:	I will walk around the lab making sure each student uses the Evernote program correctly. I will also have them e-mail me the files they saved and review their notes; making sure they correctly identified skill cues they need to work on. I will put the information into a portfolio for the students and base their grade on improvement during the class and how well they used to Web 2.0 application.
