<thead>
<tr>
<th>Objective:</th>
<th>After completing a unit on a given war or era in history, using the webpage created with Movable Type, the students will be able to create their own page to review and show what they have learned about the given topic.</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Learning Environment:</td>
<td>During class in a computer lab or at home</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Students:</td>
<td>18-22 year olds, college students</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Materials:</td>
<td>Computer</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Procedure:</td>
<td>At the beginning of the semester, the teacher will create a blank website for the class that has places for comments and blogs, assignments, and other information. Throughout the course each major era, major war, or time in history that is covered, the students will add to the website. In groups of 3 or 4, depending on how many units are covered, students will add a link to the main page and cover a unit. They will use the information from class as well as creativity to create an instructional page that covers the assigned unit.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Evaluation:</td>
<td>The teacher will grade on accurate content, use of graphics, and creativity to assign a grade for how well the students learned the assigned unit.</td>
